Education in Kyaka II

Kyaka II refugee settlement has changed dramatically over the past three years. At the end of December 2002, there were 1,242 refugees living in this settlement; by the end of 2003, the population had almost quintupled, to 6,175; in mid-2005, the population of the settlement was over 12,000. The primary schools in the settlement have also grown rapidly, accommodating the influx of refugees. Bujubuli Primary School, for example, had 347 pupils at the outset of 2003; by the middle of 2004, there were 911 pupils; and in June 2005, there were 1,272 pupils. Imagine: the population of the whole settlement in 2002 is, three years later, equal to the population of one primary school.

Refugees and Internally Displaced People (IDPs) often see education of their children as the principal way of ensuring a better future for their family. Just as importantly, education often plays a critical role in creating stability in the daily lives of displaced children. However, in environments like Kyaka II, education is often less than adequate at promoting either present or future stability.

Addressing Challenges in Kyaka II

Most everyone is good at identifying challenges. More important, though, is how to address those challenges. Advocacy workshops held in three refugee-hosting areas in Uganda—Kyaka II refugee settlement, Nakivale refugee settlement, and Kampala—involved stakeholders in planning the way forward. Participants included parents, pupils, teachers, community leaders, UNHCR staff, implementing partner staff, Office of the Prime Minister (OPM) staff, and Ministry of Education representatives (District Education Officers and District Inspectors of Schools).

The aims of these workshops were (1) to present findings from three years of research (available at www.mbeleni.org); (2) to collectively analyse the challenges identified with a focus on advocacy; (3) to train stakeholders at all levels in advocacy strategies; and (4) to develop a way forward for education in displacement in Uganda.

Ten overall priorities emerged from these workshops; they are outlined in “Education and Displacement in Uganda, Advocacy Brief No. 1: Challenges and Ways Forward.” Each site, however, also has its own specific concerns. In Kyaka II, the local stakeholders have worked collaboratively to chart a way forward with the goal of activating local, community-based resources to make education better for all children. Their visions and action plan are outlined on the following pages.
Vision

Our vision for education in the Kyaka II area is that…

♦ All children of school-going-age will be attending school;
♦ Both national and refugee children will be able to access education;
♦ Each school will have enough and qualified teachers;
♦ Education staff will be highly motivated in terms of salaries and conditions of work;
♦ Every school will have enough learning materials according to pupil enrollment;
♦ Structures will have been adequately built, eg. classrooms, latrines, teachers’ accommodations;
♦ All children will have acquired the four language skills in English;
♦ We will have overcome the language barrier between teachers, pupils, and parents;
♦ We will have reduced the dropout rate, particularly due to early marriages among girls;
♦ Negative attitudes towards education among the parents will have changed to positive attitudes;
♦ School children (both primary and secondary) will be provided with lunch;
♦ All pupils will appear in school uniform;
♦ Our pupils/candidates will compete with children in urban schools;
♦ More secondary schools will have been built;
♦ Boarding schools will be built;
♦ There will be adequate communication facilities to promote positive learning, eg. roads, vehicles (for tours);
♦ All children will be able to access higher education to overcome the problem of unemployment;
♦ We will have achieved computerisation.

Priorities

Through the identification of priorities from the vision for education, the group developed the following problem statement to guide advocacy in the Kyaka II context:

The lack of sufficient funds and willingness to invest in education by school funders (government and UNHCR) has led to the lack of enough trained and competent teachers, particularly of the English language, and few sensitisation programs to encourage children of school-going-age to attend school.
Action Plan

A community meeting was held on August 25, 2005 at which the workshop participants presented the activities of the workshop and their action plan. Over 200 community members attended.

Long-term Goal:
We will have overcome the problems identified in the problem statement and have quality education for all refugee and national pupils.
